Comprehensive document summaries are the most valuable tools an attorney has in case and time management. By deleting extraneous materials from deposition transcripts, for example, the paralegal's deposition summary provides an easy reference to the substantive testimony therein, saving the attorney valuable time.

As a paralegal with 15 years of extensive litigation experience, I can assist attorneys and law firms with a wide range of services including, but not limited to, depositions summaries, legal document summaries, medical records analysis and chronology, trial assistance, etc.

If you or your firm is considering outsourcing it's deposition summaries / legal document summaries, or if you are not satisfied with your current paralegal services and are investigating your other options, please review this site for any additional information you may require and contact us to let us know how we may assist you.
